These categories are not mutually exclusive and the boundaries between classifications are frequently fuzzy. This schema is intended to facilitate the students' examination of MIS research and is not intended as a normative taxonomy. The following course bibliography is organized sequentially by research topic.