The program can run in silence.

However, the computer can:

- ring when input is required
- buzz if you make a mistake.
- beep each key depression.

Using sound slows the program.

Do you want sound?

Press Y for yes, N for no.

You must tell the computer how you want your file organized by giving:

- the number of fields in each record
- the name of each field
- the length of each field
- the sequence in which your records are to be kept.

The computer will then organize your file

when you are ready to continue
